Help light the fuse on this progressive, thriving community by giving to the Jackson Artists Center

“In order to continue developing a lively Arts District, [we need] publicity, a coherent policy, financial backing and property tax restructuring. Artists need affordable homes and studios and a national stage on which to sell their wares. Most importantly, the arts need to remain in Northeast in order to sustain an economically healthy mix of activity and codify Minneapolis’ image as an arts-friendly city.”

What the Jackson Artists Center needs from you

- 1 Your petitions and letters of support: Talk to your elected representative
- 2 Help build and equip the JAC production facility. Foundation grants or private donations for the facility, or for specific studios or equipment are necessary to make this project possible.
- 3 Create an artists housing endowment for a specific artist or discipline
- 4 Create and endow a community program
- 5 Contribute to the Artists Marketing Fund
- 6 In keeping with JAC's innovative building philosophy, it would be our pleasure to work with you to customize a philanthropic plan that matches you or your organizations values, style, and passion.
